Alan T. Seabaugh was born and raised in Shreveport. He is a graduate of Captain Shreve High School. He graduated from LSU in 1990 and received his law degree from LSU in 1993. He then returned to Shreveport where he has practiced law ever since. In 2002, he left a larger firm and went out on his own. He is currently the managing partner of Seabaugh & Joffrion where he specializes in General Civil Litigation, Family Law and Oil and Gas Law. He and his wife Laura have four daughters ages 13 to 7.

FRANK HALL, SR.

Frank Hall grew up in the oilfield, following his father around as a young child. Since he's 85 now, you figure he maybe didn't sell the lease for that original Spindletop well, but he was eyeing all that adjacent property. Mr. Hall has been an oil producer for himself since the early 1970, and his son has joined him in the oil business for the past 20 years.

Mr. Hall couldn't be with us this evening, as today is his wife's 84th birthday, and he's having to pick up the check for a family dinner at Ernest's. His experience will be a valuable asset to our Negotiations Committee.

THOMAS K. BLACK, Jr

Thomas K. Black, Jr. has had his own CPA firm for over 20 years, with active practices in Louisiana and Alaska. Prior to that time, he was President and CEO of the Kuskokwim Corporation in Alaska, and over a 22-year period rose from accountant to Senior VicePresident of World-Wide Operations of Tri-State Oil Tool Industries. Tri-State was an oilfield downhole services company that became the world's largest fishing services company and a subsidiary of Baker Oil Tool.. Mr. Black is a native of Texarkana, a graduate of University of Kentucky where he played football for Bear Bryant. Tom and wife Nancy have launched two successful sons, and live in the Apple Tree subdivision off Stratmore.
